Dedicated

to Charles Christopher Mierow

because he is a finished scholar and a genial student of life and letters; because he is a true gentleman and a man one must instinctively respect and cordially admire; but chiefly, because we like him, the Class of 1929 dedicates this Nugget to our president Dr. Charles Christopher Mierow.

Foreword

College days are a glorious weaving of golden sunlight and purple shadow. If this Nugget has caught, not simply for the present but for all time, a flicker of the gold, a patch of the shade that was 1927-28, it has attained its object.

DEAN HERSHY

DEAN CROUCH

Dean of Men

Without attempting to give a detailed list of duties, it might be said that any wide variation from normal conduct or performance among the men of the college is of interest to the Dean of Men. This does not mean that he seeks a high degree of standardization in everything that affects the men of the college. In many instances the variation is highly desirable and is encouraged.

But a certain degree of regimentation is necessary wherever a considerable group is working together. Perhaps the Dean of Men is a kind of time and quality keeper for the men in Colorado College. He is interested in seeing that work is done with reasonable promptness and that the quality does not fall too far below accepted standards. But there is always a peculiar delight in serving the original, ambitious student and the prospective scholar.

Dean of Women

The social life of the young women has always been one of the distinctive pictures of Colorado College. Out-of-town students live in the four dormitories: McGregor, Montgomery, Ticknor and Bemis Hall. The large common dining room in Bemis, with the after dinner coffee hour on Sunday makes possible a spirit of democracy and good fellowship.

Life in the dormitories is regulated by Student Government and a member of the faculty is hostess in each hall. At various times during the year there are large all-girl parties. The outdoor recreations of the students, however, are emphasized more than the indoor parties.

In the sponsor system the younger girls come to know the older students, and resident faculty members share not only the pleasures of student life, but they frequently help in the solution of student problems. Indeed, "There is no place like Colorado College for a girl!"

MR. ORMES

Coburn Library

The Coburn Library, which was opened in March, 1894, has seen many changes. This year, the most notable one was the opening of the library for students who wished to study at night. In addition to other important purchases, the librarian has continued collecting material on Western History. The last addition was a collection of the private laws of the Territory of Kansas. This contains interesting charters for stage lines, toll gates, and other pioneer projects. The next change hoped for is a new building where there will be ample space for all the books which, for the present have to be stored.

There was one change in the library personnel: Beatrice Sims was granted a leave of absence and will return in September. Helen Trumbull has taken her place. Miss Ruth Edwards has also been added to the staff, having charge of the library in the evening.

Department of Mathematics

The senior members of the department of Mathematics have been active this year in writing. Professor Sisam has published a book, "Recent Advances in Algebraic Geometry," in co-operation with several other mathematicians. He, by special request, will read a paper, as a delegate of the American Mathematical Society, at the International Mathematical Congress at Bolgona, Italy, this summer. Professor Lovitt, besides contributing widely to mathematical journals, has written a book entitled "Mathematics in Business." Professor Albright has continued to make curves showing distribution of grades.

PROF. SISAM

PROF. CLARK

Department of Business

The Judson M. Bemis Department of Business Administration and Banking has just completed a very active and successful year. The department was headed this year by Professor L. Funston Clark, taking the place of Professor Drucker, who is on a leave of absence.

The department continued its custom of taking groups of students to neighboring cities to study at first hand the activities of large industrial and mercantile enterprises carried on there. All of the classes in business, economics, and sociology this year had a surprisingly large increase in enrollment figures over those of last year.

Department of Biblical Literature

The work in this department is wholly elective, for the most part open to all students, and arranged in semester courses throughout, so that the student with time and inclination may enter the work of any semester without the necessity of continuing the work for a full year in order to receive credit.

In 1927-28 courses were offered in Biblical Introduction, Life of Christ, Biblical Literature, Greek New Testament, Principles of Jesus, Early Church History (to end of fourth century), and History of Religion. All courses are taught without sectarian bias, for their world content in religious and moral values. In addition to the work in the college, lectures totaling more than five courses were given in the city.

DR. MCMURRY

PROF. HULBERT

Department of History

Aside from the regular teaching, the members of the department of History have been active in research work. Professor Hulbert has collected material enough for nine volumes of the proposed twenty-six volume collection of documents concerning Western History. Professor Binkley is continuing his work on the History of the Republic of Texas. Assistant Professor Russell, a new addition to the department, published in the magazine In Speculum an article on "Henry Avranches, an International Poet."

In the Colorado College Studies, he has published three short studies on Medieval Intellectual Activities. At present, he is translating a medieval grammar from Latin to English.

Department of Philosophy and Psychology

The department of Philosophy and Psychology has been considerably strengthened since last year by the addition to its staff of Dr. Robert S. Ellis, who carries the various courses in psychology, with the exception of a one year course, Principles of Psychology, conducted by Dr. Wilm. Dr. Ellis is the author of a monograph, "Standardizing Teachers' Examinations and the Distribution of Class Marks," and has in the press another volume, "The Psychology of Individual Differences," (Appleton). Dr. Wilm has in preparation a new volume, "Instinct and Intelligence," which is the second volume of his recent book, "The Theories of Instinct." These books are being published by the Yale University Press.

Department of Chemistry

PROF. DOUGLAS

Once known as "The Black Art," since its achievements were shrouded in much secrecy, and considered akin to witchcraft, Chemistry is now on a basis easily comprehensible to the layman. Great industries have grown up around one process, while even nations have become important thru the application of Chemistry to their industries.

Because of skillful instruction and advanced methods, Colorado College stands at the top in the list of institutions giving this science. With recent times presenting many wonderful things, and the future promising still greater developments in this line, Chemistry may be said to command a truly great horizon with tremendous reward for its masters.

Department of Physics

Professor P. E. Boucher and E. V. Martin are in charge of the physics department. Courses are given in electricity and magnetism, optics and light, dynamos and motors, X-Rays, photographs, illumination, radio and vacuum tubes, and radioactivity.

Besides the regular laboratory and class work, some work in connection with photo-voltaic effect and some work concerning the cathode fall of potential inflames by Professor Boucher has been in progress. All the major students have been well placed for the coming year.

PROF. BOUCHER

Department of Biology

PROF. GILMORE

Colorado College offers an unsurpassed course of study in the Biological Sciences. Ranking among the foremost in this line of endeavor, it offers an excellent opportunity for pre-medical training or biological work of any sort.

All kinds of courses dealing with plant and animal life are included under this one big head. From General Biology to Research Problems in Biology, a myriad of subjects are open to every student, underclassman to post-graduate. The general field for this type of work is great, with astounding possibilities for the trained worker, while at the same time it is a pleasant and interesting occupation.

Department of Geology

For many years Geology has been a study of much importance in many processes, but since the advent of the petroleum industry it has traveled by leaps and bounds to a position of major significance.

In the past few years our own department, not to be outdone, has made great progress. The outcome has been expansion and general improvement. Much of this extension and enlargement was made possible thru the aid of the Marland Oil Company. This company contributed much new equipment, and was of invaluable assistance in many other ways. No college in the country today offers a better, more complete course of instruction in this field than Colorado College.

PROF. KEYTE

Department of Engineering

The subject of Engineering is always of importance as a major. Established in Colorado College under the direction of Dr. Florian Cajori, the Engineering Department has grown steadily, gaining a position of great importance in the curriculum.

In 1919, after the World War, readjustments were made whereby all electrical courses, formerly given by this department were taken over by the Physics Department. Courses as now given lead to the degree of Bachelor of Science, with majors in Civil, Chemical, and Electrical Engineering. Each year sees a greater number of students graduating with degrees from these subjects, proving it a truly great asset to Colorado College.

PROF. OKEY

Department of Forestry

As a novel major Colorado College offers a course of study peculiar to itself in Forestry. This subject combines much healthful outdoor work with educational advantages. Especially in the junior and senior years is the outdoor side emphasized. During the greater part of that time both students and faculty live in the woods.

Most of the field work is done on wonderful expanses of timber owned by Colorado College. Manitou Forest, which contains more than 6,200 acres is an ideal spot for such work, while Camp Colorado, the headquarters of the Forestry School, provides excellent buildings and camp facilities.

PROF. PARKER

The PIKES PEAK NUGGET

Department of Romance Languages

PROF. LATIMER

Offering a wide variety of courses in French and Spanish, including conversational courses as well as more advanced studies of literature and composition, the Romance Language Department draws an increasingly large number of major students each year.

All of the instructors in the department have been abroad and are able to present the language in a form and accent acquired only from study and travel in that respective country. With international trade on the increase and foreign travel prevalent, every person feels the need of these languages. This department also offers several courses in Italian, giving students at Colorado College the advantage of all three.

Department of Classical Languages

The Department of Classical Languages and Literatures is headed by the Moses Clement Gile Memorial Professor, Herbert Edward Mierow (Ph. D., Princeton). President Mierow maintains his interest in the department, conducting courses from time to time. Miss Marjorie Davis is an instructor.

Courses are offered in various phases of ancient civilization such as history, private life, and the literature of Greece and Rome. Greek Drama in English is offered occasionally, and it has been the custom to present a Greek play at commencement time.

The two social organizations are the Classical Club and Eta Sigma Phi.

PROF. MIEROW

DEAN HALE

Department of Music

"Music is the universal language." Colorado College is excelled by none in the teaching of this subject. Misguided systems and obsolete methods have been abolished, and the subject placed on a scientific methodical basis.

Music today is as much an academic subject as any of the other sciences. It leads to a great future and, in higher circles, to a high renown. The field for talent here is broad and far reaching. Opportunity is boundless, while at the same time work is interesting, pleasant, and enjoyable. In the Music major, a college education is combined with the chance to develop natural ability along that line.

Department of Education

Courses in Education, as taught in Colorado College, strive to present methods of education used in public school systems and other educational institutions. The necessary number of hours may be had to enable the student to procure the graduate certificate to teach in the public schools of Colorado.

An additional number of hours allow graduates to teach in high schools approved by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Three main branches of study are offered: General and educational psychology, educational methods and principles of teaching, and historical development, present organization and administration of educational institutions.

Department of English

New courses, increased interest in the honors course, and plans for improved handling of the freshman work, have engaged the attention of the English Department for the past year. A course in Mythology, one in Early English Literature, and one in Dramatic Interpretation, have been added, and the courses in Old English have been successfully revived. Plans for a revision of the freshman course are almost completed, and will probably become effective in the fall. The Department has a larger number of honors candidates than ever before, and good prospects for continued interest in this work.

Department of Astronomy

Little heard of but one from which much pleasure is derived is the subject of Astronomy. Becoming of more and more importance as time goes on, yet known to such a few, it offers a small field of great specialization.

Colorado College has a small number of courses along this line in its curriculum. These are under the direction of Professor Albright. The first of these is a study of the earth as an astronomical body. A second, the study of the Sidereal Universe. Thirdly is a study of the constellations. The second course is open to students through work in Physics, while the first and third are courses of an elementary nature.

The Associated Students of Colorado College

The year just closed was for the Administrative Council, the student governing body of Colorado College, one of marked accomplishment and advancement in many ways.

Following the course adopted last year, the Council continued its judicial duties in addition to its legislative program, taking over the work of the now abolished disciplinary councils.

The plan of having the library available for work in the evenings, supported by the Council for several years, was put into effect and met with great success.

The Homecoming program conducted by the body this year was one of considerably wider scope, and the results showed the work of careful and methodical planning. College vesper services, instituted last year, were continued under council supervision, and the regular services held were well attended by the student body.

In the regular spring elections three amendments to the A. S. C. C. constitution were passed. The first placed the editor and manager of the Tiger on a salary basis, the second was in regard to the appointment of a committee from the Council to handle and correctly formulate all proposed constitutional amendments, and the third provided for regular written reports from class treasurers and the managers of all student activities. A fourth amendment, regarding the institution of a point system for student activities, was lost.

Student Government

The Student Government Association elects its members from girls living in the dormitories. The government represents four classes, the presidents of the four halls, and the Student Government president. Its purpose is to make and enforce rules for those living in the halls, which seem necessary to the welfare and happiness of the entire group. As an organization it is so successful that at present it makes all regulations which seem necessary. The Student Government Association is a living organization, constantly requiring changes to meet new conditions of dormitory life.

The success of the organization is largely due to the fine spirit of co-operation and conscious work of its officers.

The Red Lantern Club is an honorary senior organization limited to a membership of twelve men. The members are selected on the basis of their accomplishments during their underclass days and for their promise of service during their senior year. Each spring "Tap-day" is observed, at which time the new members are chosen and tapped.

The purpose of the club is to strengthen and perpetuate all worthy activities of the school and to advance those things which might die through lack of leadership. Dr. Harry Woodward is an honorary member of the club.

The Pikes Peak Nugget

THE Pikes Peak Nugget, the official student yearbook of Colorado College, is published by the Junior Class. It is a record of the corresponding college year, as nearly complete and accurate a record as editorial ability and financial limitations will allow.

The aim of the Nugget Staff has been to give this year's book up-to-date improvements in every section, to make it a better, more complete record than ever before. We have tried to catch and make permanently lasting through these pages something of the real life and elusive spirit that represents, better than anything else, the true self of our school.

The central theme of the book is that of the Colorado College of today, presenting its own individual features and natural characteristics that every C. C. student regards so highly. In a widened scope of art work, an improved general arrangement, and forward steps everywhere possible, the editors have sought to realize this underlying purpose of betterment.

We have made many mistakes, our work has fallen far short of our visioning, but we submit this volume, hoping that its shortcomings may be overlooked if we have truly succeeded in making the 1929 Nugget, in some sense at least, a better Colorado College yearbook, one perhaps worthy to be connected with the name of our President, the man to whom it all is dedicated.

The Colorado College Tiger

THE Colorado College Tiger is the name of the student paper which is published semi-weekly during the college year. The editor and the manager are elected each spring by the Associated Student Council from recommendations made by the Publications Committee. No one may be elected to either position who has not had at least two years experience on the Tiger staff. The staff of the paper has been enlarged this year and a system of department heads worked out in an endeavor to increase the news value of the paper. In February ten members of the staff attended the fifth Inter-collegiate Press Association convention held on the Aggie campus at Fort Collins. A number of helpful suggestions concerning the handling of news were received at the conference.

The outstanding improvement in the Tiger this year has been the change from a five to a six column paper. This not only improves the appearance of the front sheet, but allows more space for certain features and columns and makes the Tiger more truly representative of collegiate journalism.

One of the features of the paper has been the column the "Campus Crab," which has endeavored by "crabbing" and suggesting certain improvements to better several campus situations. "What Have You?" has been another popular column which was instituted this year. The column "Potter's Clay" devoted to student writing, which was inaugurated a year ago, has been continued, a number of verses of merit having been contributed.

The Student Handbook

THE Student Handbook, more familiarly known as the "Freshman Bible," is compiled each summer for the following school year. The editor and manager, both positions being filled by the same man, is selected by the Publications Committee from a list of student applications.

The handbook, containing a wealth of valuable information concerning the college, although primarily intended for the use of incoming freshmen, also serves as a handy pocket information diary for every student.

Its contents include the official school calendar for the year, an explanation of college customs and traditions, important rules and regulations, and various directories. Other features in its makeup are a list of organizations and publications, the constitution of the Associated Students of Colorado College, and a guide map of campus buildings. School songs and yells also have a place in its information list.

This year's Student Handbook was edited by George Andrew Cecil.

This year's All-College Picnic, directed by James Knowles, was handicapped by a bad weather jinx, but was successful in the opinion of the small crowd attending.

COLORADO COLLEGE, 28; MONTANA, 7

Homecoming

Homecoming this year was one of the most successful that has ever been held, due not only to the fact that the black and gold eleven trounced Montana State in royal Tiger fashion, but also that the alumni returned in unprecedented numbers and had three days of real entertainment. As of tradition, it was held in October and with the combined efforts of faculty and students, everything worked out smoothly and without the usual last-minute rush that often marks such an occasion.

The first day, Friday, October 21, was begun by registration in the morning and a Hypatia Homecoming Tea in the afternoon. In the evening the Sophomore Barbecue and Pep Meeting were held, which everyone who attended pronounced a great success from the hamburgers and pumpkin pie to the stunts presented by freshmen men. The Growlers gave a dance at the Antlers after the pep-meeting.

Society Breakfast started the following day, after which a parade was held, sponsored by the Tiger Club and the Growlers, and consisting of floats of fifteen organizations. The most important event of all and one that will not be forgotten for some time was the C. C.-Montana State football game, in which the Tigers came out on top with a 28-7 score. President and Mrs. Mierow entertained at a tea immediately following the game, at which alumni and their friends were present. The week-end program ended Saturday night with entertainment for everyone. Koshare Club presented a play at Cogswell Theatre, and for those who preferred dancing, an all-college dance was held in Cossitt Gym. Here townspeople, students, alumni, and friends of the school again mingled for one more of the wonderful times for which C. C. is famous.

Magna Pan Pan

Magna Pan Pan, the annual all-college vaudeville, was held this year in Perkins Hall on December 15. The program of twelve acts was made up of varied and original vaudeville numbers given by the fraternities and societies represented on the campus. Johnny Metzler's orchestra played popular numbers at intervals during the evening.

Pan Pan, an annual affair coming the night before the beginning of Christmas vacation, was managed this year by Harry Lamberson and Harry Blunt. Each year a prize is awarded to the best fraternity and the best society production. This year's men's prize was won by Phi Gamma Delta, Hypatia and Contemporary tying for the women's award.

The program was as follows:

"Shame on the City"—Beta Theta Pi. A plot woven around a city slicker and little Nell.

"Hash, a Crime in Two Hacts"—Zetalethian. A mixture of Shakespeare and modernism.

"The Doll Dance"—Hypatia. A miniature takeoff on Tony Sarg and Ziegfeld.

"Will It Come to This," or "A Night in a Taxi"—Pi Kappa Alpha. A prophecy or a warning or something.

"CCCCCC"—Crescent Club. A clever song and dance review.

"Wild Nell, the Pet of the Plains"—Phi Gamma Delta. A real western thriller packed with passion, hate, and gun-play.

"The Fotygraft Album"—Contemporary. Introducing the "family relations."

"Ivory Afloat"—Phi Delta Theta. A tear-stained desert tragedy of sheiks that aren't dirty and camels that are off-stage.

"Then and Now"—Minerva. A modern interpretation of Romeo and Juliet in a darktown backyard.

"Curses, What a Night"—Kappa Sigma. A vivid dramatization of marriage and domestic strife.

"Marvels of Modern Surgery"—Sigma Chi. Harrowing bone-sawing operations in silhouette.

"Anti-Railroad Meeting"—Delta Alpha Phi. A quartet—"And their four young voices rose and fell in unison."

THE MINUET

The Colonial Ball

A hint of lavender, a faint breath of jasmine, soft strains of an old waltz, stately pompadoured ladies—it might have been Washington's Inaugural Ball, this assemblage of colonial dames and gentlemen. But it was one hundred and fifty years after that fashionable event—the annual Colorado College Colonial Ball.

Twenty years ago, the traditional Colonial Ball was as equally important as a social event as it is today, but in those days it was for "hall girls" only. The girls, dressed as gentlemen, sent nosegays to the ladies of their choice and gallantly attended them during the evening. Now every girl in Colorado College is invited to attend the unique affair.

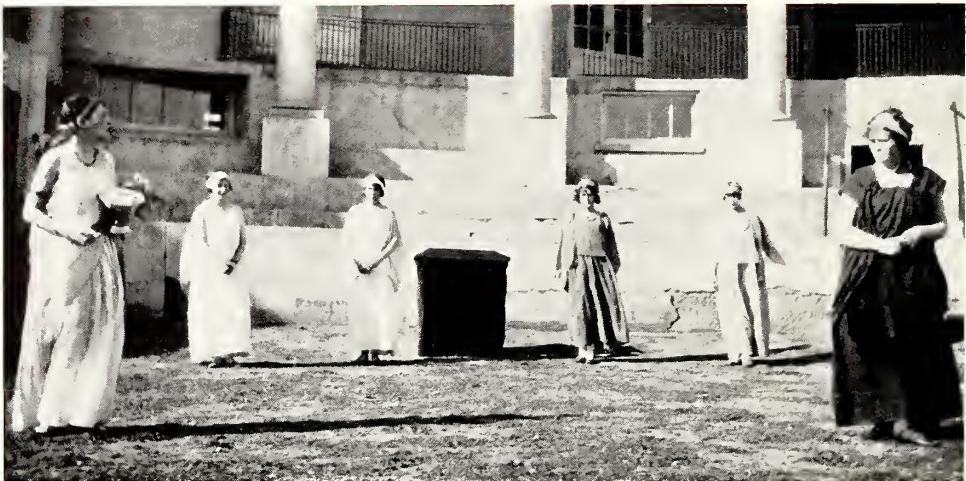

This year the Ball was held in Bemis Commons on February 24. Before the dancing, dinner was served by candle-light in the Bemis dining room. Promptly at eight o'clock, following the grand march, Mary Ritter, as the lady, and Barbara Potter, as the gentleman, gave a charming colonial dance. Immediately afterwards, the chosen sophomore girls danced the minuet.

The dancers were, Betty Meston, Betty Fuller, Georgie Danks, Florence Kimberly, Florence Pickett, Carmen Cross, Dorothy Davidson, Ruth Jackson, Eva Crowder, Sarah Howells, Sarah Sheldon, Helen Hageman, Mary Moore, Evelyn Stubblefield, Beth Smith, and Alva Keplinger.

Both dances, accompanied by an orchestra of violin, cello, and piano, were beautifully done. Following the minuet, the colonial ladies danced until midnight, much to the disgust of the crowds of college men who may look in the windows, but whose appearance at the Ball itself is forbidden.

SPRING, and the seniors in cap and gown gather for the academic procession; the small crowd in the library tries to keep awake; and the far-sighted few who have hoarded their cuts for the finish, enjoy their freedom while the unlucky mob pours into assembly.

THE FROSH, a thousand or so strong, batter, step on, and more or less undress the sophomores to win the flag rush, and then rub it in a bit by hauling them through the very "unsteamheated" waters of Monument Lake a few weeks later.

LOOKING UP the Jungle steps after the big snow; looking up the side of Bemis with a flashlight camera; and looking down the jungle steps at night into a pitch blackness of mystery and who knows what.

THE COLONIAL BALL is a wonderful affair for the coeds, but isn't so hot for the men who stand out in the snow and watch. Lower right, we have Betty all dressed up, but they wouldn't let Duke go to the Ball.

THE BIG SNOW, and how it did a little fancy redecorating on Cossitt, the men's commons, Ticknor, one of the freshman halls, and Coburn Library, where a few go to study, some to read "Life," and the rest just because everybody's there.

WINTER paves the way for bob-sled parties, skating, skiing, or even an occasional Bender; below, one of those heavy wet snows that are ideal for a snowball fight.

ALL READY for the big sidewalk cleaning campaign; below, Mr. Murray's establishment all lit up to allure the Monday night crowd of after-meeting fraternity men; and right, the real secret of Mr. Copeland's long line of visitors.

"WHOA," and the riding club holds everything long enough for a picture; below, Keith showing how Doug Fairbanks should have played the "Gaucho," and the Hypatias pool their pennies to buy Henry Ford's earliest attempt at making a car.

FORMALS, the extra-elegant, super-elite social functions of the fraternity and society year; Broadmoor and Cheyenne Lodge seem to get the call for location. Below, Bruin Inn at the top of North Cheyenne Canon, the end of a favorite hike.

COACH VAN DE GRAAFF

Coach William Van de Graaff

Coach "Bully" Van de Graaff has just completed his second year as director of athletics at C. C. Coach Van de Graaff attended Alabama University for four years as student and football player. Following his graduation there, he coached a small school in Texas for a short time and then entered West Point. Graduating in 1918, he went direct into the army as a lieutenant in the infantry. Until last year he was stationed at Alabama University with the R. O. T. C. unit. While there he was coach of the frosh football team for three years, during which time they did not lose a game. Coach "Bully" is considered by football critics in the east as one of the best football coaches in the United States at the present time.

Coach Alvin G. Twitchell

Coach Twitchell came to C. C. in 1925 from Brigham Young University. He was head coach of baseball in 1925 and head coach of basketball in 1926. Coach Twitchell was a student and football player at Utah Agricultural College, playing three years of football while there. In 1916 he was chosen for All Rocky Mountain fullback and in 1917 All Rocky Mountain Conference tackle. While in school, he was a three letter man in track and in basketball. Upon his graduation, he attended the Illinois Coaching School and Rockne's Coaching School. Since that time he has coached ten years—four years in high school, four years at Brigham Young University, and two years at Colorado College.

COACH TWITCHELL

The PIKES PEAK NUGGET

Coach Jo Irish

Coach Irish came to C. C. with an enviable record as a track athlete. While at Park Hill (Ill.) High School, Irish was a member of the track team that twice won the Chicago university national track meet, winning the broad jump and placing in the sprints. In his freshman year at the University of Illinois, he was captain of the freshman varsity track team. In 1916, the year that Irish would have made the Olympic team, there were no Olympics because of the war in Europe. Jo was chosen on the official all-American track team in 1917 as broad jumper. Among Coach Irish's best records are: broad jump 24 feet; high jump 6 feet; standing high jump, 5 feet $2\frac{1}{4}$ inches; 100 yard dash, 9 4-5 seconds. While Irish has been with us only a short time, he has made great strides in putting the athletics of the institution on a firm basis.

COACH IRISH

COACH HUGHES

Coach Harry Hughes

Coach Hughes began his work as coach of freshman football at Colorado College this year. It is his job to begin the molding of high school stars into varsity material. This season he faced the problem of a long list of green candidates, to some of whom football was an entirely new experience. His work in teaching them the rudiments of the game was clearly brought out in the surprising development of the Cubs during the season. Several of his pupils of this year show real promise of being varsity stars next fall. Under his direction the frosh learned several different types of football, and were able to give the Varsity real competition before the season closed.

Football — The 1927 Season

CAPTAIN PHELPS

Displaying a championship brand of football that carried them through to the final game of the year with only one defeat and a chance for the Rocky Mountain championship, Colorado College had its hopes crushed to earth by a heavier and more experienced Aggie team in the deciding game of the year.

The season opened with ten lettermen back and a large number of sophomore stars from which was molded one of the most formidable Tiger teams in recent years. Considering the fact that Coaches Van de Graaff and Twitehell had the smallest squad of any school of the conference, all the more praise is due them.

Captain-elect Vandenberg, Clark, and Cecil were the outstanding players of the conference. Besides being selected on the all-conference teams, all three received all-American honorable mention which is a unique distinction for Colorado College.

The following men finished the season with their letters: Captain Field Phelps, Captain-elect Roy Vandenberg, J. Phelps, Bevan, Clark, Sareander, Harrison, Schisler, Cecil, Cool, Herstrom, Putman, Roessner, Beery, Leggett, and Williamson.

SECOND Row—Van de Graaff, Leggett, F. Phelps, J. Phelps, Beery, Lackey, Johnson, Parker, Twitchell.

THIRD Row—Bevan, Sareander, Vandenberg, Southard, Knowles, Harrison.

Opening the season with a sensational victory over the highly touted Denver Pioneers, the Tigers classed themselves as championship material that would go far in the conference race.

Coach Van de Graaff's charges were always on their toes, their blocking and tackling was of a high order, and they completely outfought and outsmarted the Red and Gold eleven, obtaining a twenty-two point lead at the end of the first half.

Vandenberg and Beery were the outstanding stars of the game. Vandy piloted the team faultlessly and proved himself a real field general, out-thinking the Pioneers at every turn. Beery set a new conference record by blocking three kicks in the second quarter of the game.

This game also marked the initial appearance of "Galloping Dutch" Clark, gridiron phantom, in conference circles. The whole Tiger team deserved credit for the victory, the light Bengal forwards outcharging the D. U. heavies and the backfield functioning as a well-drilled unit.

Giving one of the worst drubbings ever administered a visiting eleven on Washburn field, the Bengal eleven completely overwhelmed the Montezuma Chieftains in a non-conference game.

The feature of the contest was the uncanny running of Clark, Bevan, and Vandenberg, with the Phelps twins in the front rank of the interference. Accurate forward passes sprinkled here and there and the impregnable defence of the line, that held the visitors to two first downs, helped to amass such a large score.

The Tigers were slow in getting under way, the score being 7-0 at the end of the first quarter, but at the start of the second period fans had an opportunity to see a beautiful exhibition of perfectly executed football.

The line, which was altered for the game, lived up to expectations and turned in a good day's work. During the 60 minutes of play every man on the squad was given a chance to display his wares.

Before a homecoming crowd of 7,000, the largest in the history of Tiger athletics, the dangerous Montana State Bobcats were swept off their feet by the orange and black hordes of Colorado College.

A sweeping, versatile attack, behind a wonderful running interference, with an aerial game such as has never before been witnessed here, told the story of the Tiger victory.

Every man on the Bengal team played heads-up ball throughout the battle. Clever coaching and a well planned attack were evident throughout the game.

The Tigers revealed a quartet of wonderful ball carriers in the backfield, with Vandenberg and Clark on top, and Captain Phelps playing the best game of his career. The Bengal line showed to advantage in this game, opening up large holes when needed and consistently stopping the Bobcat's backfield aces in short order.

In a contest that was more an arctic exploration than a football game, the Tigers returned home from the Wyoming struggle the only undefeated team in the conference.

The game was a battle from start to finish with mud, the strong northwest wind and the extreme cold making conditions very unfavorable. Probably in no other game did breaks, luck, and flukes mean so much. Every point was the result of some unprecedented occurrence.

Putman, lanky Tiger center, was the individual star of the game and he and Cecil on the defense were towers of strength. Clark and "Fat" Phelps bore the brunt of the ball carrying attack in an attempt to gain on the heavy and slippery field. "Fat" (Phelps) aided materially through the placement and distance of his kicks in turning back the up and coming team.

The story of the Boulder victory over the Black and the Gold will go down in history as one of the hardest fought games of conference competition. Twice did the Tigers have the ball on the Silver and Gold six inch line, only to be turned back and have victory snatched from them. This same jinx caused Capt. Phelps failure to convert for the extra point that would have tied the game score.

It was the homecoming game for Boulder and the fourteen thousand fans that were gathered for the occasion could be satisfied with nothing less than victory, crushing as it was for the Tigers.

Clark was the outstanding star of the game and accounted for much yardage thru his passing ability. Leggett played a stellar game in the line for which he deserves much credit. Vandenberg, altho criticized by some for his choice of plays, played a heady game throughout.

DON HARRISON

Unleashing a lightning aerial attack to score three touchdowns, the Tigers turned back the scrapping bears from Greeley, 20-0. Every marker was made by the passing route and Dutch Clark kicked two out of the three tries for goal.

Injuries kept the Bengals from presenting their full strength; Capt Field Phelps, Leggett, Roessner, and Sarcander all watched the game from the side lines. Many penalties were incurred by the Tigers which tended to slow the game up and make it uninteresting.

"Fat" Phelps proved his superiority in the kicking department and kept the Bears continually at bay. Greeley's activities were confined outside the Tiger 20 yard line most of the day.

Williamson and Bevan turned in unusually nice games for C. C., the latter by proving his ability to snag passes out of the air.

Aggies 20

The great Aggie horde swept down from the north and tore on thru the Colorado College Tigers for three touchdowns while the Black and Gold could only garner one lone tally.

Realizing that a victory would give them the Rocky Mountain Conference Championship, the Tigers gave their all against a team that was superior in weight, stamina, and driving power, only to be beaten down and trod upon by the strong and fast Aggie forward wall.

Cecil, playing the greatest game of his career, broke through the Aggie line repeatedly, made the majority of C. C. tackles, and was in practically every play. Capt. Phelps was taken from the game with four broken ribs, so severe was the Aggie battering. Dutch Clark, though he was a marked man, cut loose in spots, and his remarkable passing was great to watch. Bevan excelled in receiving the Dutch man's whirlwind tosses.

Freshman Football

The call for Freshman football men this year brought out a large number of candidates of weight and natural speed but handicapped by inexperience. This last factor was apparent throughout the season and the Cubs finished their schedule with one victory and three defeats.

Opening on October 11, with a game at Gunnison with the Western State yearlings, the Tiger frosh, tired from the strenuous trip were unable to halt the Mountaineer attack and lost 44-0.

On October 30, the Bengals broke into the win column with a victory over the Army team at Ft. Logan. The black and gold men, in spite of the fact that they were heavily outweighed, proved their superiority in a rough and tumble battle and won 12-0.

The Freshmen next journeyed to Ft. Collins to take a defeat from the Aggie frosh, 30-7. In the final game of the year, the Cubs met the Regis frosh in Washburn Stadium on Armistice Day. The game was hard fought to the last whistle, with the elevens closely matched, but the contest ended with the Regis yearlings holding the long end of a 6-0 score.

The men winning numerals were: Captain Hinkley, H. Hampton, Hutchinson, Nowels, McDavid, Irwin, Hakes, Burno, Hamlin, Rothamel, Heerwagen, Webb, Hayden, Wilson, Kase, Dain, Warning, Conley, Schnorr, Milne, and C. Hampton.

CAPTAIN PHELPS

Basketball Review of the Season

WHEN Coach Alvin Twitchell issued the first call for the 1928 Tiger Basketball team, thirty-five reported for practice. Of this squad were seven of last year's letter men. Prospects for a championship Bengal Five had never been better. The seasonal upsets for 1928 were by far the most surprising than for many previous years. One point defeats, tough breaks, and unusual upsets of the dope pail placed the Tigers in second place. Had the season continued for one more game, there is little doubt but what the Bengals would have nosed out the Wyoming Cowboys for Eastern Division honors.

The Conference opener for the Bengals began with a two game tussle with the Western State Mountaineers. The first game found the Bengals winners 23-19 in a fast fray. In the second affair on the following night, the Jungle Cats were victors again over Western State, this time by a 54-33 decision.

A journey to the Capitol City brought a 32-29 conquest over the Pioneer Quint. This game is cited as the fastest game of basketball ever played in Denver. The week following, the Tigers trailed into Wyoming to trade baskets with the Cowboys. Fighting against a long trip and a big team, the Tigers tasted their first defeat. The final score was Wyoming, 41; C. C., 36. The Miners were listed as the next opponents of the Tigers. In a furious battle in the Orediggers "Cheese-box" gym, the Bengal emerged with a 43-31 margin. After this the Black and the Gold machine functioned fast enough to bury the Silver and Gold at the City Aud by a 31-22 count. The Teachers' invasion was repulsed to the noise of a 34-20 result. The next Friday, however, the Bears triumphed over the Tigers in a terrific struggle by a one point victory. The same week-end the Farmers got under way by giving the Bengal organization their worst defeat. This score was 59 for the Aggies and 38 for the Tigers. The Farmers then repeated in an attack on the Bengal lair. This time the task was more difficult, but the final gun saw the Irrigators leading 35-33.

The Cowboys came from the north and roped the Tigers by winning 35-31. The next evening the Tiger Tossers buried the Orediggers 53-25. D. U. followed the Miners example and returned to the Queen City with 45 markers against their own 33.

The last game of the unusual season was played at Boulder, when the Bengals trouncing the Colorado U. team by the commanding score of 45-28.

FAT PHELPS

DUTCH CLARK

ERNIE SIMPSON

The Team

CAPTAIN "FAT" PHELPS, guard, played his last and best year of Tiger basketball this past season. Paired with Fifty Ryan, the two, in nearly every case shorter than their opponents, handled the defense in a way that showed the results of their seven years of basketball together.

The low scores against the Tiger five had their reason for being low in these two guards.

"DUTCH" CLARK, center and guard, played his second season of college basketball this year and proved himself the same old galloping whirlwind. Leading the attack time after time to the opponents goal, Clark, with a lightning-like dribble, a swift, sure pass or an impossible looking one hand shot would either score or make it possible for a team mate to do so.

"ERNIE" SIMPSON, forward, finished his basketball career in Black and Gold colors by again winning conference high score honors and again landing a forward job on every mythical five selected.

When Ernie was on, there was absolutely no limit to the size of the score he was liable to pile up, and his floor work was always steady and dependable.

INKY INGRAHAM

GEORGE SIMPSON

FIFTY RYAN

The Team

"INKY" INGRAHAM, forward, played his first year of basketball at C. C. this past season. Taking Johnson's place when the latter was lost through ineligibility, he proved that the problem of finding someone to fill the empty shoes was solved for good. Ingraham is unusually adept at short one-hand shots, has a bullet-like left handed pass, and has three more years of the game ahead of him.

GEORGE SIMPSON, forward and center, headed the substitute list. When someone was needed from the bench, George usually got the call. In addition to his knowledge of the game, his experience made his value on a par with that of the regular five. With three years of work on the team behind him, George has one more season to give the game.

"FIFTY" RYAN, guard, has earned the reputation of a consistently hard-fighting player from start to finish. Besides being one of the outstanding masters of the dribble in the conference, "Irish" seldom failed to contribute more than his share of points. In spite of his size, he was one of the most feared guards in the division and will be greatly missed next year.

HODDY JOHNSON

CAL THIERFELDER

COACH TWITCHELL

"HODDY" JOHNSON, forward, was forced to drop from the squad after the first few games of the year when grades made him ineligible. He is a cool-headed floorman and is dead on short shots. "Hoddy" has played two years in a Tiger suit and will be back for more.

"CAL" THIERFELDER, forward, was always a good bet to have ready in the reserve ranks. He was fast on his feet and had a good eye for the hoop. He will not be back.

COACH TWITCHELL, the man in charge of basketball at Colorado College, has made a fine record as coach. His teams can be counted on to finish at or near the top, and he understands thoroughly the fine points of the game.

"BILL" HINKLEY, guard, played his first season at C. C. this year. His ability at handling the ball, close guarding, and consistent shooting make him a bright spot for the future. Playing regular as a freshman, he has three years more.

Track

The 1927 track season at Colorado College opened with a team that was weak in the dashes but reasonably strong in some of the longer distances and field events. The old handicap of a small squad to draw from meant the usual battle against the big entry lists of the larger conference schools.

The Tigers opened their season in a dual meet with Denver at Washburn on April 23. D. U., with a world of material in the track events, piled up $77\frac{1}{2}$ points to $62\frac{1}{2}$ for C. C.

The next event on schedule was the annual Colorado Relays held at Boulder, April 30. The Bengals upset the dope bucket and broke the conference record in the two-mile relay, Speir, Wilcox, Parker, and Schisler dividing up the distance. With C. C. finishing fourth in the totals, D. U. led the list with 17, C. U. coming second with 16, and the Aggies taking third place with 15.

On May 14, the Irish squad met Western State on Washburn to completely swamp the Gunnison boys, $113\frac{1}{3}$ to $26\frac{2}{3}$. The Tigers won every event except the javelin and the two mile.

A week later, 24 Tigers track men made the trip to Denver for the state meet to compete with the athletes of six other schools. The event of the day was the pole vault when Sarcander, the Tiger captain, tied for first with Huffman of Aggies with a leap of 12 feet $7\frac{3}{4}$ inches. The entries finished: Aggies, 54.7; C. U., 39.6; D. U., 39.5; C. C., 25.5; Western State, 8; Teachers, 7.

On May 27-28, the Tigers entered the Conference Meet at Denver, twelve men making the trip without G. Downing, high and broad jumper, who was ill with tonsilitis. In ideal meet weather, eight conference records were shattered. Brewer of Aggies vaulted 13 feet $\frac{1}{4}$ inch to beat a jump of 12 feet $9\frac{3}{4}$ inches by Sarcander. The scores were: Utah Aggies, 33; D. U. 32; Colorado Aggies, 27; Utah U., 26; B. Y. U., 20; C. U., 17; C. C., 9; Wyoming, 5; Teachers, 3; Montana, 1; Western State, 0.

Seventeen track "C's" were awarded at the close of the season, and "Dog" Downing was elected to captain the 1928 squad.

With the opening of the 1927 baseball season, prospects looked bright for a championship contending team. A wealth of material and an unusual staff of pitchers led the critics to believe that the Tigers were on the road to a successful season.

The opening games of the year were with the Mines nine at Broadway Park. The first day, with Shull tossing a great game from the box, his support failed him and the Miners won 7-3. The following afternoon the Tigers showed a reversal of form that gave them the heavy end of a 10-1 count. Graham pitched.

The second series was with the Teachers on April 29-30, and was played at Greeley. In the first game, Graham pitched tight ball to bring the Bengals out 6-3 winners. In the second barrel of the double-header, the Tigers lost 16-13 in a slug fest. Anderson replaced Shull in the second inning when the latter let a homerun slip in with the bases full.

May 6-7, the Tigers journeyed to Denver for a two game bout with Denver University. The first day the Pioneers bunched their hits to win 5-3, but in the return game the Twitchell boys got hot and won 11-9. Graham and Anderson were the pitchers in this series.

The next tangle was with the Aggies on May 13-14 at Ft. Collins. The first day the Farmers nosed out a 6-5 victory and followed it in the second game with a 9-7 win, lowering the Black and Gold percentage several notches and spoiling all chances for a title.

The Tigers ended their season against Colorado University at Boulder on May 20 and 21. C. C. took the first day's game 13-4 with Graham twirling a nice game and every man on the Bengal squad connecting with the stick. In the second day's meeting, Anderson tossed the Tigers to a 5-3 victory, making a clean sweep of the series to finish the season in fine style. The feature of the two games was the hitting of Spicer, who collected three home-runs in two days in addition to a flock of other hits.

The following men received their letters: Captain Hall, Captain-elect Herstrom, Spicer, Graham, Shull, Anderson, Simpson, Powell, Enyart, Wade, Williamson, and Gibbs.

Tennis

Opening the season with three letter men, Captain Lewis, Moses, and Simpson, prospects for a strong Tiger tennis team looked favorable. After a careful weeding out of new candidates through an extensive schedule of tournament play, Danson and Bray were added to the squad.

On April 30, the Tigers went to Boulder to open the season with the State net men, but were defeated five matches to one. Simpson and Danson prevented a shut-out by beating Buckman and Lorraine, 7-5, 4-6, 7-5, to make the only score for C. C.

In the next two contests, the Bengals broke even, winning from D. U. at Denver and losing to Teachers at Greeley without taking a single match.

On May 21, the strong State team invaded the Quackenbush courts and accounted for all but two of the matches played. Moses managed to defeat Anderson in the singles, 6-8, 6-3, 6-4, and Truby and Lamberson got a lucky break in their match with Anderson and McHale when the Boulder pair had to leave with the score 4-4 games in the first set played, forfeiting the match.

On May 26, the Tigers entered the conference tournament held in Boulder with little hope of success. The field of entries was strong, with twenty-three men being entered from the different schools of the conference. The dope ran true to form, and the Bengals failed to score in any of their matches.

Bob Moses was elected to captain the squad the following year.

Golf

The 1927 Tiger Golf Team lost their chance for a sixth consecutive championship when they finished second to Denver University in the conference matches played at Cherry Hills, May 20-21. The final score of the schools represented was: D. U. 23½; C. C., 14½; C. U., 8.

When Coach Hulbert issued the first call for his team, in spite of the ineligibility of Captain Phelps, new material made the outlook a promising one.

The first three meets of the season seemed to verify this outlook. On May 7, in the opening clash of the season, C. C. won a triangular meet with D. U. and C. U., the teams scoring 21, 17, and 8 points respectively.

A week later the Bengals entered a quadrangular, two day meet at Denver with State, D. U., and the Teachers. The Tigers were victorious both days in the first clash nosing out D. U. by a 16½ to 15½ score. Undefeated up to the time of the conference matches, losing the championship was a bitter pill for the Tigers.

The 1927 team was composed of Seibt, captain, Armstrong, captain-elect, Fleming, Johnson, J. Phelps, and Killian.

Interfraternity Baseball

Phi Gamma Delta won the 1927 intramural baseball pennant by defeating the Kappa Sig nine in the championship contest. The two teams represented the winners of their respective leagues, the Fijis having won the National League banner and the Kappa Sigs being the standard bearers of the American League.

The final contest, which was played at Broadway Park, went to the Phi Gams largely through the influence of the air-tight pitching of Proctor.

In the preliminary games, the campus fraternities were divided into two circuits as follows:

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Kappa Sigma
Beta Theta Pi
Delta Alpha Phi
Independents

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Phi Gamma Delta
Pi Kappa Alpha
Sigma Chi
Phi Delta Theta

Interfraternity Basketball

The 1928 interfraternity basketball championship was won by Sigma Chi after one of the best played and hardest fought tournaments since the establishment of interfraternity competition. Games were played in Cossitt Hall each Tuesday and Thursday nights with an admission charge of ten cents a game, helping to finance the varsity baseball and golf squads.

The regular schedule of games ended with four teams, Sigma Chi, Beta Theta Pi, Pi Kappa Alpha, and Kappa Sigma, in a four-cornered tie. In the playoff, Pi Kappa Alpha and Kappa Sigma were defeated, with the Sig Chi five winning from the Betas, 15-13, in the championship contest.

The teams finished in the following order: Sigma Chi, Beta Theta Pi, Kappa Sigma, Pi Kappa Alpha, Phi Gamma Delta, Phi Delta Theta, Delta Alpha Phi, and the Independents.

Interfraternity Track

Kappa Sigma won the 1927 campus track championship when they nosed out the Fijis, champions for four consecutive years previously, by a 51 to 43 score.

The victory was largely due to the work of Lackey and Downing in the sprints, broad jump, and high jump, while Sarcander entering practically every event possible, kept the Phi Gams in the running.

Each team competing was backed by a girls' society and the rivalry, always great in the annual contest, was keener than ever.

While the purpose of the meet was specifically to decide the intramural championship, it was of great value to the coaches in finding material for the season's varsity squad.

The schedule of events was as follows:

TRACK	FIELD
100 yd. dash	Pole vault
220 yd. dash	High jump
440 yd. dash	Broad jump
Half-mile run	Shot put
Mile run	Discus throw
Two mile run	Hammer throw
High and low hurdles	Javelin throw
Half-mile relay

Preliminaries in the various events were scheduled in the morning, the finals being run off the same afternoon. The final standing of the teams was:

	POINTS
1. Kappa Sigma.....	51
2. Phi Gamma Delta.....	43
3. Beta Theta Pi.....	26
4. Sigma Chi.....	8
5. Delta Alpha Phi.....	8

Other organizations either did not enter teams or failed to score.

Kappa Sigma

Founded at University of Virginia, 1869

Established at Colorado College, 1904

Colors—Scarlet, White, Green

Flower—Lily of the Valley

The Kappa Sigma fraternity was founded at the University of Virginia, December 10, 1869. It was founded by the "five friends and brothers," William McCormick, George Arnold, Edmund Rogers, Jr., Frank Nicodemus, and John Boyd. Starting its program of expansion with the year 1873, it has since grown rapidly and at the present time has a total of 105 active chapters, scattered through every part of the United States and extending into Canada. Alumni chapters are likewise to be found in all of the principal cities of the country. The total membership of the fraternity is about twenty-five thousand.

In its European tradition, Kappa Sigma occupies a unique position. Most of the ritual, together with many of the fundamental doctrines, of the modern Kappa Sigma has been taken from the original Kappa Sigma which existed at the University of Bologna during the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. The government of the fraternity is vested in a committee of five called the supreme executive committee. The national conventions occur on alternate years and are termed conclaves. Recognizing the worth of Colorado Springs as a convention city, Kappa Sigma held one of its recent conclaves here.

The local chapter, Beta Omega of Kappa Sigma, was established in the year 1904, when a charter was granted to the local fraternity, Phi Upsilon Sigma, an organization of only seven men at the time. This installation marked the advent of the national college fraternity on the Colorado College campus. Other nearby chapters include those at Denver University, the University of Colorado, and the Colorado School of Mines.

Sigma Chi

Founded at Miami University, 1855

Established at Colorado College, 1905

Colors—Blue and Gold

Flower—White Rose

The fraternity of Sigma Chi was founded June 28, 1855 at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio. Thus Sigma Chi is a member of the Miami Triad, an appellation frequently applied to the three national fraternities originating at Miami University. The fraternity was originally organized under the name of Sigma Phi, but the following year the Greek letters were changed to Sigma Chi. In its attempt to combat its extinction in universities of the Confederate States during the Civil War, Sigma Chi adopted the plan, unparalleled in the annals of other fraternities, of organizing a chapter in the Confederate army composed of members serving under General Joseph E. Johnston, in the army of the Tennessee. The fraternity has constantly grown in membership since that time until at the present there are 87 active chapters and almost as many graduate chapters. It is distinctly national rather than sectional in character, having chapters in nearly every state in the Union, as well as one at the University of Toronto in Canada. The total membership of Sigma Chi is nearing the twenty-five thousand mark.

The local chapter, Beta Gamma of Sigma Chi, was the second national fraternity to be established at Colorado College. The installation of the local chapter occurred April 22, 1905. Shortly before, two local organizations had been united under the supervision of several interested alumni of Sigma Chi, and reorganized as Beta Phi, the petitioning body. To this group a charter from the national fraternity was soon granted, initiation ceremonies being held in the Cave of the Winds. Other chapters in the state are located at the University of Colorado and the Colorado Agricultural College.

Phi Gamma Delta

Founded at Jefferson College, 1848

Established at Colorado College, 1908

Color—Royal Purple

Flower—Purple Clematis

The fraternity of Phi Gamma Delta was founded at Washington and Jefferson College, then known as Jefferson College and located at Canonsburg, Pennsylvania, on May 1, 1848. All of the six founders, among whom John Templeton McCarty was the leader, were law students at Jefferson College. Prior to the Civil War expansion occurred mostly in the southern part of the country. After the war, however, expansion became more rapid and national in character. Following a nationally conservative policy, Phi Gamma Delta today has 69 active chapters distributed throughout the country and in the University of Toronto in Canada. Most of the chapters are concentrated in the states along the Atlantic coast and in the western Allegheny mountain region, with, however, several chapters in the South and the far West. There are two chapters of Phi Gamma Delta in the Rocky Mountain region, the one at Colorado College and one at the University of Colorado. The total membership of the fraternity is well over twenty thousand.

In 1904 the Chi Sigma Gamma Club was organized on the Colorado College campus as an outgrowth of a similar earlier organization. Four years later, in 1908, the petition of this local was approved by the fraternity of Phi Gamma Delta and a charter was granted to the organization under the name of Kappa Sigma chapter of Phi Gamma Delta. For obvious reasons the original Greek designation was subsequently altered to Chi Sigma of Phi Gamma Delta. The local chapter was recently host to the national fraternity at one of its Ekklesiaeia, or national conventions. Of particular interest during the past year was the formation of a Colorado Springs Graduate chapter largely by Chi Sigma alumni, the first graduate chapter in Colorado Springs of any fraternity on the campus.

Phi Delta Theta

Founded at Miami University, 1848

Established at Colorado College, 1913

Colors—Azure and Argent

Flower—White Carnation

The Phi Delta Theta fraternity was founded December 26, 1848 at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio. Robert Morrison and John Wilson were leaders among the six founders. The chartering of chapters in other institutions began almost immediately and before the Civil war the fraternity had laid the foundation for substantial growth. The war, however, checked further development and left only five chapters in existence at its close. During the next decade the fraternity again expanded, chiefly into southern universities and colleges, where even today a large percentage of the chapters are to be found. By 1880 the expansion was widespread, reaching into the eastern states as well as the southern and western. At the present time there are 97 active chapters. The total membership of the fraternity is nearly thirty thousand. Phi Delta Theta is one of the "Miami Triad." After several variations and changes in forms of government, the fraternity adopted the present plan in 1880. A Grand Council has full executive powers over all the chapters, which are divided into provinces. Various other national officers and committees serve to make toward an efficient administration of fraternity affairs.

The Colorado Beta chapter of Phi Delta Theta was installed at Colorado College in 1913. The local whose petition was approved and to whom the charter was granted was organized in 1909 under the name of the Alpha Tau Delta Society. After changing residences several times, the fraternity seems now to have found a home well adapted to fraternity needs at 1105 North Nevada. The house-warming last fall was one of the notable events of the college year.

Beta Theta Pi

Founded at Miami University, 1839

Established at Colorado College, 1914

Colors—Pink and Blue

Flower—Rose

The fraternity of Beta Theta Pi was founded August 8, 1839 at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio. It was the first of the "Miami Triad" and one of the first of the national fraternities now in existence, being the first fraternity to originate west of the Allegheny mountains. Expansion was immediate and rapid, there being thirty-seven active chapters established before the Civil War. These chapters were largely concentrated in the Middle West and even today the number of chapters in that section of the country is greater than in any other section. Twice during the lifetime of the fraternity a union has been effected with other fraternities—with Alpha Sigma Chi in 1879, and with the Mystical Seven in 1889. The union with Alpha Sigma Chi was instrumental in gaining a strong foothold in the Middle Atlantic states, while the Mystical Seven fraternity gave Beta Theta Pi great strength in the South Atlantic states. Expansion has steadily continued, and today there are 85 chapters distributed in all sections of the country. The total membership of the fraternity is near the thirty thousand mark.

Out of a local organization founded at Colorado College in 1906 grew the petitioning body which eight years later was granted a charter as the Gamma Delta chapter of Beta Theta Pi. The installation took place at the Antlers Hotel on September 3, 1914. Other chapters in the state of Colorado are those at the University of Denver, the University of Colorado, and the Colorado School of Mines. Marking the fourth time that the annual convention has been held in the state of Colorado, although the first in Colorado Springs, the local chapter plans to play host to the national fraternity this summer.

Pi Kappa Alpha

Founded at University of Virginia, 1868

Established at Colorado College, 1920

Colors—Garnet and Gold

Flower—Lily of the Valley

The Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity was founded March 1, 1868, at the University of Virginia by six close associates, led by Frederick Southgate Taylor of Norfolk, Virginia. Like many other fraternities, Pi Kappa Alpha experienced a hard and discouraging struggle for existence during the early days of its history, because of the disorganization of southern colleges by the Civil War. With improved conditions in the South, however, Pi Kappa Alpha began to expand and soon had gained a strong foothold in the South. Although not organized as a sectional fraternity, it became one by constitutional provision in 1889, and remained as such until the convention of 1909 deemed it preferable to expand into all sections of the country. Since that time a steady and national expansion has occurred.

There are now 74 active chapters, located chiefly in colleges and universities in the South but with an ever growing percentage in other sections of the country. Total membership of the fraternity is about ten thousand. The administrative functions of the fraternity are controlled by a Supreme Council acting between biennial conventions. In 1920 the local chapter Beta Rho of Pi Kappa Alpha, was installed from the local, Epsilon Sigma Alpha. This local had its origin in 1907 as the Engineer's Club. However, in 1917 the engineering school of the college was abandoned. The club then became a local social fraternity and existed as such until the granting of the national charter on December 22, 1920. Other nearby chapters include those at the University of Colorado and the University of Denver.

Delta Alpha Phi

Founded at Colorado College, 1924

Colors—Silver and Green

Flower—Carnation

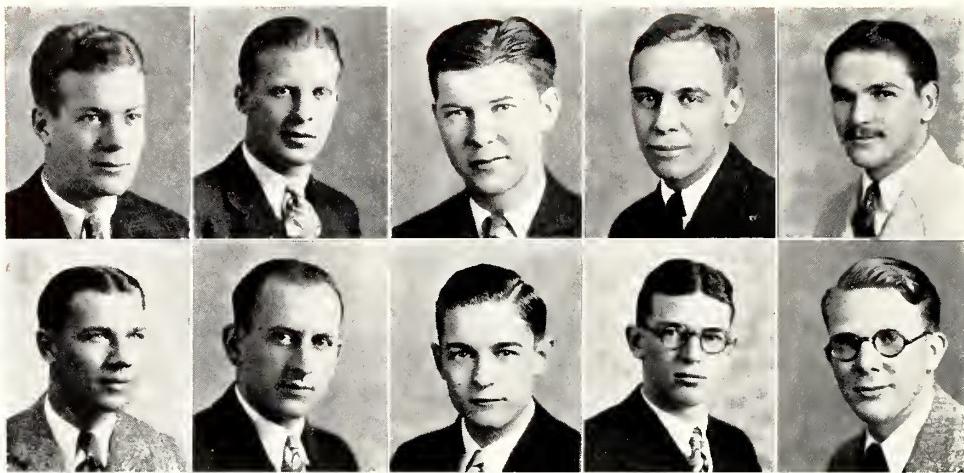

The first semester of the college year 1924-25 found several close friends desirous of perpetuating the ideals of their friendship in the institution of fraternity. They wished to crystallize their attachment into an enduring bond which would be of service to an ever increasingly large number of men as the years passed. In order to accomplish their purpose the fraternity of Delta Alpha Phi was organized. The precepts and doctrines of the fraternity are embodied in the name.

By the second semester the fraternity had made rapid strides. Its membership now totalled twenty-one. The first pledges, seven in number, having passed through their period of pledgeship, were initiated into the fraternity. By the next year, with most of its members back, Delta Alpha Phi was established on a sound footing. A year later, in the fall of 1926, having outgrown the usefulness of its first home on East Yampa, the fraternity moved into its present convenient location at 831 North Cascade.

The only local fraternity on the campus at the present time, Delta Alpha Phi has been received on an equal basis with the national fraternities and has shown its worth through its wholehearted participation in every college activity since the time of its organization. For the past two years Delta Alpha Phi has maintained its leadership in scholarship over the other fraternities and anticipates continued success.

Minerva

Minerva, organized in the fall of 1891, is the oldest of the organizations now on the Colorado College campus. With Minerva originated many of the traditions and customs of Colorado College, and she has been instrumental in perpetuating their practice. Her custom of entertaining non-Minerva girls soon became an intersociety affair. The tradition of serenading developed through the inspiration of Minerva. It was originated by the Appollonians for the express benefit of Minerva, but was subsequently taken over by all the fraternities and made to include all the girls of the college. It was through Minerva that the May Fete became traditional. In 1900 she entertained Contemporary in the Jungle at a Maypole Dance. Later this function became the annual May Fete.

In her nearly forty years of existence, Minerva has several times changed her place of residence. At first the meetings of the society were held in the basement of Cutler Hall. A few years later, however, she was permitted to use, jointly with Appollonian, Society Hall. With the disbanding of the Appollonians in 1919, this hall became the exclusive property of Minerva and became known as the Minerva Clubhouse. Largely through the activity of her interested alumnae, Minerva was enabled in recent years to build her present attractive home.

Contemporary

Only a month before the nineteenth century drew to its close, a second literary society was founded at Colorado College. On the afternoon of the 24th of November, 1899, a group of twenty-one girls assembled in the Wolcott observatory with the purpose of organizing such a society. Originally the name of "Sigma Nu," meaning "Second to None" was chosen. Shortly afterward, however, the name of "Contemporary Club" was adopted, its derivation denoting that it was contemporaneous with the other organizations on the campus.

The first Contemporary function, a violin recital by Mrs. Fred Baker, was held in 1902. Since then Contemporary functions and traditions have played an important part in the life of the college. The first "German," a strictly Contemporary function even to this day, was held in 1903. In October, 1904, the first formal initiation occurred. For many years the Contemporary Society gave a Fancy Dress Ball. This tradition was later replaced by the ball given for Freshman girls.

Close communication between the active and alumnae members has been carried on through the agency of Round Robin letters for some twenty-five years. The alumnae are a very active and interested body and are most helpful to the club. For almost twenty years the Contemporary Club has occupied its present home in the Wolcott observatory.

Hypatia

Hypatia Literary Society was founded during the first semester of the year, 1903. This year, 1928, consequently marks the completion of a quarter of a century's activity and success. At the time of the society's organization, the enrollment of girls in Colorado College had risen to such considerable numbers that the need for another literary society was made evident. Co-operation from the faculty and the other two societies aided in putting Hypatia on her feet in a very short time. In preference to adopting any of the Greek designations suggested, the twenty-eight members of the society decided on the name of "Hypatia."

Since the date of its inception, Hypatia has contributed her share toward the building and maintaining of college tradition and customs. A supper given annually to Minerva, Contemporary, and the new girls of the college, early became a tradition of Hypatia. Within recent years this custom gave way to the intersociety dance for new girls. During the early years of her history, the meetings of Hypatia were held in the study of Ticknor Hall. In 1924, however, through the co-operation of the alumnae, the present home of the society was built.

Zetalethian

Zetalethian Society was organized April, 12, 1926. The need of a new society was especially felt at that time because of the increase in the number of girls eligible for a society. It has been the aim of the group to develop friendship and to maintain and create an interest in literary work. It has also, as one of its aims, to support other worth-while phases of campus activities. A high average of scholarship is necessary for a member to retain her society privileges.

Lavender and white were selected for society colors and the white chrysanthemum for the society flower.

Eta Sigma Phi was founded at the University of Chicago in 1924 and now has chapters at twenty-seven colleges and universities.

Kappa Chapter was installed at Colorado College on October 30, 1926 with thirty charter members who belonged to the Colorado College Classical Club established November 18, 1921, and is still in existence. From this membership a few are elected each year to Eta Sigma Phi. With an active chapter of thirty-three members and eleven alumni, Kappa Chapter sets the record for the year in the National Fraternity so far as the lists have been recorded.

Theta Alpha Phi now has fifty-four chapters in leading American colleges of which the Colorado College chapter is the eleventh. It was established to maintain interest in dramatics and unite socially, students and instructors of dramatic ability. Theta Alpha Phi publishes a monthly magazine, "The Cue," to promote national interest in dramatics and to keep each chapter informed of the national affairs of the fraternity.

Members are chosen by completing a set of qualifications concerning the number of presentations played in and the number of leading roles taken.

The spring of 1923 saw the first Colorado College Riding Club. In May of that year, the new organization won fame for itself by sponsoring a Rodeo which was both thrilling and eventful. It has become the practice for Miss Eleanor Davis, assisted by members of the club, to take the beginning riders out. When these beginners are considered to have enough ability, they are admitted to the club automatically. Each spring the club rides up into the hills where the annual breakfast is held. It is the aim of the Riding Club to stand for the best there is in sportsmanship, as well as horsemanship. The long rides along lovely trails have come to mean a lot to the girls who enjoy the sport.

The Colorado College Credo

Wherein a Prominent Critic Dissects the Campus Character, or Lack of it

By GEORGE JEAN NATHANHEIMER

Presented with the task of characterizing the college, the character of the college has been found to demand a new and radically different method. It would not suffice to give the idiosyncrasies of those few individuals among us who might be said to possess character. That would be immodest in that most of those individuals, the most outstanding of whom is the author, are on the staff of the humor section. And furthermore, if we were to do it thoroughly, we fear that the most poignant facts would be struck by the persifelous hand of the censor. Such is the character of our college.

We have come at last upon a method of our own: We have attempted to give a critical portrait of our college by enumerating the articles of belief which we think the average student on our campus subscribes to. If a man may be judged by the books he reads, the campus may be judged by the tenets of its collective faith.

Our best research has revealed that the Colorado College student believes:

That the Pikes Peak Region is blessed with a healthful climate, and that it is indeed a privilege to live in Colorado.

§2.

That the students of other colleges in the state, and the U. of C. in particular, are of a degenerate run known as the cake-eater type, and that other campuses do not possess such admirable specimens of the thick-beef he-man type as our Cecils and our Clarks.

§3.

That the Economics department is the most important one in the college and that a degree in economics is a really a great advantage to the student when he gets out in the business world.

§4.

That men with a New England accent are usually sissies.

§5.

That Colorado College has an enviable scholastic standing in the East and may well be called the "Princeton of the West."

§6.

That Professor Moll is from Australia.

§7.

That the President really visits all the places he talks about in his lectures.

§8.

That not all the hall girls come here because their folks won't send them anywhere else, and that all in all, the strict watch kept over co-eds here is really a safeguard to things so young and innocent.

§9.

That there is little or no drinking among the students, and that the whole moral atmosphere of the college is admirably wholesome.

§10.

That, failing to get a husband in four years, there is nothing left a girl but to teach school.

§11.

That Phi Beta Kappa was originally an honorary scholastic society.

§12.

That the fraternity-society combine has been broken up, and a Barb has just as good a chance for election now as any man if he merits the office.

§13.

That there is not a great deal of money in the student-manager positions, and what there is, is honestly earned by the managers.

§14.

That there is a reason for eating Grape-Nuts.

§15.

That the girls' societies are the next thing to sororities, and that it shows a more democratic spirit for them all to live together in the halls.

§16.

That many of the co-eds are good-looking, and that a few of them are really beautiful as the annual Nugget contest clearly proves.

§17.

That a new library would put the school on the map.

§18.

That there is a Santa Claus.

ON PARADE

These are not Boulevardieres, dear reader, but representatives of the Political Science and Spanish Departments (reading from left to right) taking in the bright lights, and the haut monde of the neighboring ville with true pedagogical savoir faire.

PARTNERS IN CRIME

Final Causes will keep them ever apart, nevertheless the Bible and Philosophy Departments may be seen strolling together, each consoling himself that he is a very charitable and broad minded man to honor his colleague thusly.

NATURE IS GRAND

There is no law to prevent the English Lit Department sharing the Jungle with the ardent undergraduates, and Miss X is really quite as romantic as the other youngsters, and is now dreaming how different her life would be if there were Lord Byrons in the world to-day.

L'ESPRIT DE SCIENCE

With a policeman-like gesture, the Biology Department man issilencing the uproar that burst forth when he casually let drop a witticism, very subtle one too, about another teaching man in the college. The man in the back row with the loud laugh will get an A.

JUST A BUNCH OF THE BOYS

Gentlemen of miscellaneous departments are here met to pronounce officially upon the deeds or misdeeds of a young woman of the college. They are going into the details of the matter with a conscience, but rest assured dear reader, that the Madame Glyn virtues of the jeune fille will save the day.

A College Man Confesses

A Parody on a Notorious Autobiography, With Other Literary Items

By YON RIDDELSKY

CHAPTER I.

"Things were coming to a terrible pass. Up until then I had always succeeded in gathering about me a bevy of beautiful women. But perhaps I was coming to be more critical, or Fate was lined up against me. That Freshman winter Pansy, dear self-sacrificing girl who had had so many late dates with me, was stricken with Pyorrhea, or something like it, and I couldn't afford to see any more of her and expose myself. . . .

CHAPTER VII.

"Alas, I was a lonely man again. When the messenger knocked on the door, bringing the fatal message that Helen the Hasher had hang-nails, I jumped with surprise, for I was expecting Caroline any minute. But when the sun had set, I gave up in despair, and decided that another well-meaning woman had failed me in time of need. . . .

CHAPTER MCMXX.

"From that moment on, I felt that my life was on the decline. Olivia was the only woman who had ever failed me. Perhaps I am growing old, but I am inclined to think that she is of the Eva Le Galliene sort—nothing less could explain it. But little did I realize that I was to experience a second rebuff with Mrs. X, whom I had fallen in love with. She had a husband, but one can always divorce husbands if necessary. Friends have told me that I should not feel discouraged, that she had nothing to do with men who did not resemble her husband, and alack I was a brunette. I was greatly disappointed. I might have used peroxide, but my aquiline nose would certainly give me away in the long run. . . .

(MEMOIRS OF CASANOVA III, by Don Harrison, published by the Co-Ed Press).

SCARCELY MENTIONED

HOW TO GRADUATE IN FIVE YEARS, by Wilfred Morris Burton. A story of enviable success by one who has succeeded. Mingled with the author's pointers on how to get along in extreme circumstances, the forming of vigilance committees, and night guard-duty, are some poignant epigrams on the fair sex who only seem so difficult because men are so tactless.

A new note in travelogues is sounded by an Eastern man from the Metropolis (Clearfield, Pennsylvania). It is an exciting and interesting account of half civilized regions west of the Mississippi, where men are men and Indians and women are wild. (HUNTING GAZELLES AND CO-ED IN THE ROCKIES, by Harold "Hoddy" "Two Gun" Johnson).

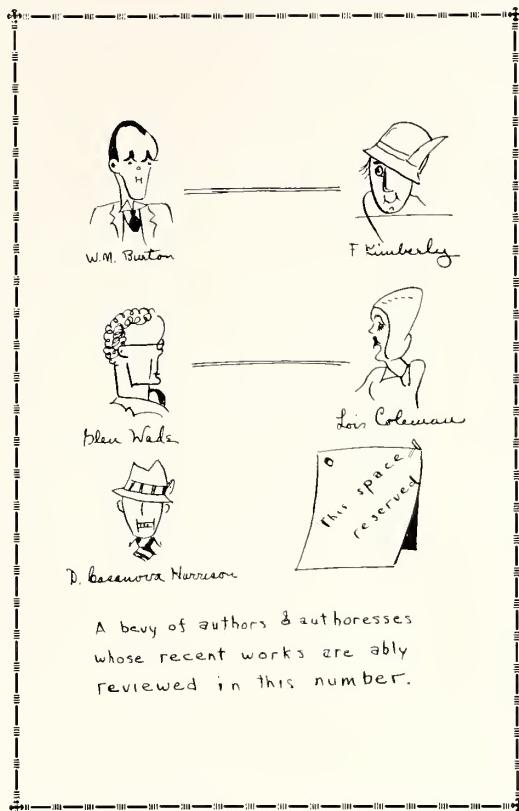

ME AND CLARA BOW, by Glen Wade is a worthy analysis of how and why red hair is irresistible. It includes biographical notes of many red-headed characters of history including Helen of Troy, William Jennings Bryan and Lydia E. Pinkham.

For those who love a good realistic picture of the Modern Generation at their best and at their worst, there is no spicier reading than THREE WEEKS IN THE MOUNTAINS, produced by the collaborated efforts of the Hypatia sextet. It is an exciting story of love and adventure in the mountains, that nearly verges on tragedy, but is saved when the heroes pay blackmail to the dirty villain, and several unblemished reputations are saved from a fictitious and malicious scandal, and the characters of the book return home no sorrier, but very much wiser.

WHY I LEFT BALTIMORE, by Florence Kimberly. Here we have a psychological study of a woman whose purposes are invariably thwarted. It is a trifle maudlin, written in pretentious style, but is a good volume for the children.

For those followers of the mystery cult, a very unusual thing is to be found in MURDERS AND RIOTS AT 1131, by Ben Charles and Frank Rand. It is a book full of excitement and intrigue about the goings on in the establishment of two young men, one very practical and precise whose worst vice is playing man-hole covers on the phonograph, and the other of an eccentric nature that knows no curb. The book is full of the musical clinking of ice, there is a different woman on every page, and the action is so hectic, that not even the authors seem able to predict the climax.

OVER ROBBINS ON THE CORNER

Quality Is Our Failure Insurance

A successful merchant once said that he considered honesty the greatest single factor for success in retailing. "Build integrity into your business" he advised, "and you not only safeguard it but your contribution to the community you live in is immeasurable."

Wise words! And that is one of the reasons why we pay so much attention to the quality of the goods we sell. It is so easy to skimp on a lining, or substitute inferior leather in the inner sole of a shoe. But then we would not be running an honest business, and it would gradually crumble into ruins.

Selling honest merchandise at a fair price is more than an ideal with us. It is our "insurance policy" against failure.

PARLOR TRICKS FOR THE DIPLOMATIC POLITICIAN, by John Cronk. Do you want to fool your friends? Or if not your friends at least the public at large, who deserve it, according to Barnum. This manual is by a man who can pull more things out of a hat than Houdini, and dissimulate more character roles than Lon Chaney. It should be a great help to any amateur who wants to succeed overnight by a new easy method.

WHY STUDY, by Preston Albright, George Baggs, and Jamie Ross. A rather demoralizing book, by a coterie of young people who endorse the primrose path of wine, women and some singing, find knowledge a delusion and a snare, and would raise old Ned to-day, come what may to-morrow.

TEN BOOKS

For the man who has made the football team, drinks on his birthday, reads College Humor, and thinks there are two kinds of women: ACQUIRING CHARM, by Betty Morgan; THE CHORUS GIRL KICK, by Betty Fuller; HAM ACTING, Betty Crannel; THE CAMP FIRE GIRLS IN THE ROCKIES, by Cyndie Hunter; HAVE YOU A LITTLE SUNSHINE IN YOUR HOME? by Lois Coleman; ELSIE DINSMORE ON A BENDER, by Claudine Sellers; HORSING YOUR WAY THROUGH COLLEGE, by Barbara Potter; WHY MARRY, by Jane Lowell; EARL CARROL, AND I THROW A PARTY, by Pat Brown; and THE OLD BOHEMIAN GAME, by Peaches Van Stone.

DEBUT

Here we have Ferdie as the fervent Freshman, little realizing the pitfalls, trials and tribulations that await a young man on the threshold of a four year campus sojourn. So far Ferdie still revels in the belief that his fraternity is a philanthropic group of young gentlemen who pledged him because they liked him, and that there is something wonderful about all women. All this is very trying to Wanda, the college widow, who is only too anxious to give him the first lesson in the school of Disillusion if she can enveigle him to look at the moon with her.

EN ROUTE A L'ENFER

Pity poor Ferdie, who is coming to the realization that all is not Haig and Haig that bears the label and that a woman's heart may not be part and parcel of her kiss. But with each passing hour he is becoming more and more reconciled to the be-tinselled but hollow world, and is consoling himself with the thought that if Beatrice of Brush has proved faithless, he will solace his grief in the arms of another on the morrow.

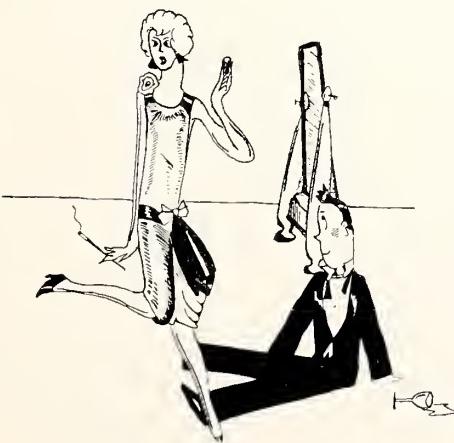

The Affairs of Ferdie

A Young Man Is Followed From
Prep School To Ruin

ENTR'ACTE

We catch a glimpse of Ferdie as the metamorphosis from prep-school novice to ripened collegiate roue is nearing completion. Here Ferdie is idling away the hours between seasons at the Clover Club Beach, and at this particular moment is engaged in taking an inventory of the attractive characteristics of Mrs. Mauve in her bathing wrap. The woman in question is known to be solicitous of the welfare of dumb animals and college boys, but Ferdie is not so naive at this stage of the game as to disregard the Herculean bulk of dear Mr. Mauve, who is less considerate than his wife for either collegians or dumb animals.

Scenery
by
PISH

FINALE

Dear Ferdie's song is ended. He is the unfortunate victim of an intriguing mother-in-law, who with the aid of a stern father is insisting that Ferdie leave his trifling habits and settle down to domestic slavery. The stern parents-to-be are really rejoicing over the prospective marriage as they have only too carefully investigated the financial status of Ferdie, Sr., the Mortician Magnate. But who can blame Ferdie for thinking that he should have dodged the wedding bells and his official best man and taken the 6:45 for home sweet home without an A. B. but a bachelor still.

DÉLUGE

Ferdie has now become enmeshed in the frivolous round of sub rosa festivity, and the thought "If mother could see me now" has just been supplanted by the idea that he is really an initiate among sophisticated college men. Regardless of the fact that his ginger-beer is irrigating the carpet, and Cleo is about to plant a Charleston step on his family nose, Ferdie is wondering if the girl friend is also thinking of something to eat. It is of no matter at the moment if this evening costs more than the last, but with morning will come the growing conviction that it is really the man who pays and pays and pays

Giddings & Kirkwood

We Nominate for the Hall of Fame:

MARGARET PEACHES BAKER

Because she has in her four years career played a whole gamut of roles beginning as Mlle. Mimi and climaxing as the Constant Lover; because she once so disturbed the usual equanimity of the Beta President that they drove into the ditch on a broad road, going twenty miles an hour; because she was cast in the stirring Dudley-Van Stone production, "The Child Without a Name;" and finally because she has never had a statement to make for publication.

KATHERINE FLASH DUDLEY

Because in the footsteps of Salvation Nell, she has carried the banner of Social Work into the hell holes of campus infamy and returned always victorious and unsullied; because her style of thinking changes with each novel she reads and she is a constant reader of James Branch Cabell; and finally because, although born in the smoky city, she has come to be known as the purest girl in college.

G. ANDREW HOTSHOT CECIL

Because he is forced to acknowledge that in more ways than one he is a big-man-about-the-campus; because in his manner of dress, his ability to talk long and loud, and his gymnasium atmosphere he typifies the high school boy's ideal of what a college man should be; because it is a general co-ed conviction that in manly appeal he ranks second only to Bull Montana; and finally because, since the age of two, he has never been known to look in a mirror.

SHERM O'SULLIVAN SHEPPARD

Because, ancient and austere traditions of the school to the contrary, he has maintained an unflinching scholastic attitude for four solid years; because he has been as long as we can remember the forensic talent of the college; because he is either ignorant or disdainful of his shortcomings; and finally because before the gaping student body, he questioned the sacred managerial-graft system and literally put ass's ears on the president of the A. S. C. C.

ALBERT BARNUM BEVAN

Because, as a self-supporting student he arrived at college on foot and is leaving in a high-powered sport roadster and is still within the law; because his name is household word on the lips of every tiller girl; because he has gathered around him an organization of promotion men aptly known as "Bevan's wolves;" and, finally, because in spite of his diminutive stature, his courage is such that when bigger women are made Bevans will be with them.

FREDERICK MALTHAUZER SCHULTZ

Because he has gone to college for five years and declares with true Teutonic optimism, "I do not see how I can help graduating;" because, with his indefatigable slip-horn, he lends an ale-house gusto and a martial blare to an otherwise decrepit band; because his five years expense account has very impressively taught him that "Free Love" is a paradox; because he is a connoisseur of the distorted pretzel; and finally because he has immortalized the statement, "The Brew was never finer."

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO.

AT THE DELLA ROBBIA

When a place is patronized by the sort of people you meet at the D. R., you can be sure that the food, the appointments and the service are just what they should be. Here you can be certain of the flavor that distinguishes well-prepared foods—

Those Tempting Sandwiches and Salads—

Everything to make a dinner or supper party enjoyable.
